

MARC PERRENOUD TRIO/Nature Boy: Can you speak words using only music? This progressive jazz piano trio seems to think so. A bunch of young bloods that aren't about the tradition, they have a full on rock attitude and even take it to the max with this conceptual work about growing pains that sounds like it has kinship with many prog rock releases. A smart set for deep thinkers, this crew's take no prisoners attitude will fare well for them as they assay their way around breaking down old boundaries. And they play great as well so there's plenty here to back up their ambition with. Check it out.

71167